1. What is the weather like?

The Northwest Territories has a relatively dry, cold climate, with long winters and warm summers drenched in sunlight. Temperatures can range from highs of +30°C (85°F) in summer to -40°C (-40°F) in winter.

South of the Arctic Circle, during the summer months, the sun rises early in the morning and sets late at night with 21 1/2 hours of daylight on June 21, north of the Arctic Circle, the sun does not set below the horizon in summer. This is truly the Land of the Midnight Sun.
